ALLUVIAL AND MORFAIR BACKED FOR ROYAL HUNT CUP

Handicap Horses To Double With My Ascot Stakes Hopes Today

JUVENILE TIT-BIT

J. Jarvis' Selected May Take Queen Mary Stakes

By BENDEX.

IT is difficult to say what will be the closest race at Ascot today. The one I find hardest to make up my mind about is the Queen Mary Stakes for two-year-old fillies.

Caretta has won both her races in a trot, and will probably start favourite. Vallema beat Gynerium cleverly at Sandown when making her debut. Gynerium has won in style twice since then.

Jack Jarvis starts two—Sans Facon, who ran away from the smart Mountain Ash last time out, and a good-looking half-sister to Campanula, Highland Lament. The last-named is rumoured to have been tried very speedily.

Then there is Mannerism, a really lovely sister to Mannamend, who will be racing in public for the first time. I was privileged to see her in Lord Astor's paddocks at Cliveden last August, and vowed then to keep a close eye on her.

WELL-GALLOPED

I have not mentioned the well-galloped Annabel, Aquitania, Rose of England filly, Hilla or Starine. Any of these may win. I shall give a hesitant vote to Jack Jarvis' selected or Highland Lament and Sans Facon. Other races:—

1.30.—Totaig runs here instead of for the Hunt Cup. At the weights, though, I prefer Fleetfoot, who surprised me by running really fast for a mile in the Derby.

2.30.—I judge Within-the-Law, Roi de Paris, Claran, Spring Morning, and Knight of Monaster to hold best chances there. I shall go for Roi de Paris, as I am sure he did not show his best form at Epsom.

3.0.—This is a good thing for Hairan, the best two-year-old seen out so far.

3.30.—I am going here for Silver Point (tap), who has been well galloped at Lambourn and gets all the allowances. Was known last year as Franz Bals. Typhonic and Bright Bird look the dangers.

4.30.—Lo Zingaro and Washington are the obvious tips. I have a "hunch" though, that Marechal (each way) is a better horse than his form to date shows.

5.0.—A horse called Colombo runs here. A real racehorse, this is. One of the good things of the meeting.

TRAINING HINTS

HORSES EXPECTED TO RUN WELL TODAY

NEWMARKET.—The Ascot Stakes will attract nine runners from headquarters, and one with an obvious chance is Within-the-Law, who won in fine style at York and is now at the top of his form, wires our resident correspondent.

R. B. Bennett has undergone the right sort of work, but he prefers soft going, and I have a greater liking for Whiteplains. Jack Jarvis' nicely weighted colt is particularly fresh and well, and there is no doubt about him being genuinely fancied.

Hairan would have to be seriously reckoned with if doing his best, while a similar remark applies to Hands Off.

I expect Within-the-Law to win, and suggest Whiteplains as his most dangerous opponent.

Hairan is considered a good thing for the Coventry Stakes, and Annabel should prove too speedy for Dispensation and others engaged in the Queen Mary Stakes. Complete selections: 1.30, Fleetfoot (each way); 2.30, Within-the-Law; 3.0, Hairan (good); 3.30, Typhonic; 4.0, Annabel; 4.30, Marechal (each way); 5.0, Colombo.

The following horses are expected to run well:—

1.30—Woodhouse (Manton) will run well. Nevertheless (Ogbourne), each way. Heronslea (Middleham), well fancied. Bow and Arrow (Blewbury) fancied.

2.30.—Son of Mint (Upavon), strongly fancied each way. Solatium (Lambourn), good each way. Solfeggio (Upper Lambourn), a place. Sethos (Epsom), each way.

3.0.—Sir Calidore (Manton), each way. Godolphin (Stockbridge), run well. Gleamer (Epsom), fancied. Pampas Grass (Malton), each way.

3.30.—Bright Bird (Manton), good. Brown Jack (Wroughton), each way (or 2.30). Silver Point (Lambourn), take beating.

4.0.—Mannerism (Manton), a place. Caretta (Beckhampton), take beating. Vallemo or Red Biddy (Stockbridge), each way. Spy Glass (Epsom), fancied.

4.30.—Lo Zingaro (Beckhampton), good.

5.0.—Law Maker (Manton), well fancied.

MISHAP TO KYLOE

The Irish One Thousand Guineas winner, Kyloe, is not expected to run in the Coronation Stakes as she met with a slight mishap when contesting the Oaks at Epsom.

ALLUVIAL, the best backed horse in the Royal Hunt Cup.

Hunt Cup Call-over

ALLUVIAL was backed to win £6,000 and remained a firm favourite at 10 to 1 when the card on the Royal Hunt Cup was called over at the Victoria Club yesterday.

Rentenmark, the French horse, was supported at 1,000 to 90, but there were no backers for Earlston.

Of the others, Morfair, The Abbot, and Pricket received most support. Following are the prices:—

COLOMBO LOOKS GOOD FOR A WINNING BRACKET

JOCKEYS & THE STAND SIDE

THE first day stars are at Ascot. They do not include Umidwar, who is the subject of rumour again, and has been struck out of all his engagements at the meeting, and Butters' other charges in Badruddin (who will run on Thursday), Allshah, Achtenan (whose mission may be the Hardwicke Stakes), and Spend a Penny. Sir Alfred Butt had hoped to win with Spend a Penny, but the ground is all against her. He will tilt against Hyperion and the foreigners with Young Lover in the Gold Cup, but his trainer will content himself today with making a bold bid for the juvenile prizes and running five in the two races.

The reappearance of Blazonry has to be further deferred. Easton waits for the Grand Prix, and Primero will not take on Windsor Lad tomorrow.

Those who had singled out North Devon as one of the picks of the Hunt Cup at the weights will note that Lord Glanely's colt has been sent for the opening Queen Anne Stakes. He was quoted at 28 to 1 yesterday for tomorrow's handicap.

The Big Noise

THE Hunt Cup business yesterday at the Victoria Club call-over was not heavy. As I expected, Alluvial was favourite, closing at 10 to 1 after being backed to win £6,000, but Duller's hope, Morfair, was the big noise, coming down from his Saturday rate of 20 to 1 to 100 to 8 offered. He opened at 100 to 6, his rate gradually shortening in the process of support to win £7,000.

The King's colt The Abbot was backed to take out £2,000 less, but 15 to 1 was obtainable.

Pricket closed at 22 to 1, and he was supported for a few thousands. His former stable companion Highlander—who is well in—came from 28 to 1 to twenty-fives, and Rentenmark, at 100 to 9, and Cotoneaster, at 25 to 1, produced a little more business than Earlston—who had no backer at 100 to 8—Commander III., Fonab, and Light Sussex at shorter odds.

The definite decision from Briscoe concerning Commander III. is awaited, and it is the same with Canteener and Cayamas. Nor is Earlston built for hard ground.

There is no rush yet for the fancied Solfatara, Hot Fight, and Young Native, but I anticipate some revolutions in the final course market, and when the draw is known and genuine stable fancies are ascertained.

* * *

I SHALL not decide definitely until tomorrow, but lean towards Alluvial, Morfair, and Highlander at the moment if you want to take any doubles with my hopes for the Ascot Stakes today.

Son of Mint and Roi de Paris both run for the Ascot Stakes, but Son of Mint is expected to manage the ground better, and I think he will give the weight to R. B. Bennett under present conditions. Within-the-Law will revel in the going, but can he give 2lbs. to Claran and 6lbs. to the well-backed Solatium?

Lower down I note Hands Off—who is my best long shot—the fancied Whiteplains and Penny a Liner, but Claran must be my main hope, for he is in form on firm going. I believe that Tuxedo runs, but it was soft in the Manchester Cup.

* * *

Last, But—

COLOMBO'S race is the last, but many will regard it as the most important. If Fleetfoot misses an obvious chance early in the day, Flamenco—a useful miler—and Law Maker, who will have benefited from York, may do better than the maidens, but it does look good for Colombo.

I can confirm that Lo Zingaro will endeavour to give Washington and Cecil 12lbs. in the Prince of Wales' Stakes, and Beckhampton's St. Leger candidate may find a stumbling block in Washington, who stays and is genuinely fancied over the distance.

Plans with Woodhouse have been changed, and he will run first in the Queen Anne Stakes, but I prefer others in the weights. Snooker is not certain to run, and Heronslea will not like the ground so well as Totaig, but I shall risk that. Nevertheless, Pharian and the Baldoyle Derby winner, His Reverence, may have too much to do, so the four I like best are Fleetfoot, Heronslea, Totaig, and Bow and Arrow, for North Devon has to prove himself in form.

* * *

A Maiden

BRIGHT BIRD is a maiden who has also to prove stamina in the Gold Vase, but they think a bit of him at Manton, and, with his pull, I prefer him to those of his own age (who include the staying Pip Emma) and the elder Typhonic, who stopped at Epsom, and Silver Point. Brown Jack may carry 10st. 4lbs. here, but Friday is his great day.

Experience will help to decide the two-year-old races, but I am going to chance it in the case of the Aga Khan's well-galloped Hilla, who will accompany Dispensation in the Queen Mary Stakes.

Lord Astor's newcomer, Mannerism, and Highland Lament have also been well tested, and we know what Caretta—the main danger, in my opinion—Vallemo, Sans Facon, and the speedy Annabel can do. Rose of England filly may run for Hogg instead of Golden Araby filly, who is doubly engaged today. Corn Deans is useful, and Starine comes with credentials from France.

Before that we shall have seen some good 'uns in the Coventry Stakes. Hairan impressed me at Manchester as the best youngster and may pave the way for the Hilla double. Vermell II. also runs for the Aga Khan, and talent will be further represented by The Jesuit, Pampas Grass, Godolphin, Sir Calidore, Gleamer, Epple Adair colt, and, possibly, Golden Araby filly. Bobsleigh waits for Friday, and Fresh Fox has not been sent.

Very Necessary

THE railing off of the well-trodden passage-way on the course from the paddock past the Royal enclosure became very necessary at Ascot as the jockeys found, on a watered course, that where the grass had been worn smooth it speeded up their mounts if they could finish near the stand side.

The stewards have given many warnings to jockeys, who are, primarily, opportunists, about not "coming over," and I hope it is strictly enforced this week that there must be no bunching near the stands, and that every rider must take his right place in the draw.

There are four good stewards and there are probably forty jockeys, a starter and his assistant. Between them all there must be the same spirit of obedience to Turf rules and very important Ascot necessities.

A frequent happening on the longer courses which continues to amaze me, is that, even in very small fields, horses do seem to get shut in or hampered before they can strike. And, in such circumstances, it seems the "jolly old favourite" is the unlucky one. We had enough of it at Epsom to make the jockeys realise that prevention is better than cure.

* * *

Accept Form

THERE will be enough upsets and a few "from the clouds," of course, without ill-luck in running contributing further. But I may add that, what may seem a surprise at the time, is often true form when we turn back, at the end of the season, to Ascot results. You see, good horses are often "tuned" for Ascot and rise then to the greatness of the occasion.

It has generally paid best, on the whole, to accept form as it stands, which remark will be quoted by those who think that Windsor Lad will always beat Colombo, but I am content to keep my own opinion.

Mountain Cloud Wins By A Neck At 20 To 1

GRAND SLAM FAILS TO STAY

By OUR COURSE CORRESPONDENT

THE Ascot Stakes calls for a good deal of study before one can come to a definite decision as to the probable winner.

No Earthly has been sent from Epsom, and there is, I hear, a good deal of confidence in his chance. The same stable sent out Grey Wonder for this race last year, but, although he finished fourth, I always contended that he wanted a stronger, if heavier, jockey in the saddle.

To my mind No Earthly is held by Claran at the weights, and I feel sure that Gooch's five-year-old will be good enough to get at least a place.

Three others which come into the picture are R. B. Bennett, Within-the-Law, and Solatium.

R. B. Bennett is said to have been trained especially for this race, but I seem to remember the same thing being said about him for the Manchester Cup, in which he cut a very sorry figure.

Lambourn horses have taken more than their usual share of prize money this season, and Solatium, who is trained there, has, I am informed, made marked improvement since running third to Negro in the Queen's Prize.

NOT WORRIED

It is not easy to say whether the going will or will not suit Solatium, who could not be seen at his best if it is very firm.

Then there is Within-the-Law, who rather unexpectedly won the Yorkshire Cup from Brunswick and other better-fancied horses. Within-the-Law did not seem at all worried by the firm going or the distance, and won very easily.

In naming Within-the-Law as my idea of the winner I must admit a wholesome dread of Claran.

Colombo will have his chance in the St. James' Palace Stakes to bring Lord Glanely a little consolation for his Derby defeat. Even if it is a falsely-run race he should have no difficulty in winning over this mile. In fact, I should not be surprised if he wins by ten lengths—just to show what he can do.

Full selections:—1.30, Spend A Penny. 2.30, Within-the-Law; 3.0, The Jesuit; 3.30, Silver Point (e.w.); 4.0, Persse's Sel.; 4.30, Lo Zingaro; 5.0, Colombo.

Jottings From The Course

"DAILY EXPRESS" SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

FOREST MAID, who ousted Grand Slam for favouritism in the first pony Derby, run at Northolt yesterday, was beaten a neck in a thrilling finish by the unconsidered Mountain Cloud.

Well ridden by Egerton, this long-shot came along on the outside in the straight and caught the struggling favourite and Odessa III in the last twenty yards.

Grand Slam failed to stay, while Bahram Wood was unable to do herself justice.

A tremendous crowd witnessed the racing. Visitors included the Marchioness of Cambridge, Mr. Tom Walls, Sir Matthew Wilson, Mr. George Duller, Mr. Victor Tabor, and other well-known Turf personalities. Here is a list of the results:—
