RACING.

MUDLARK ONLY MAKES A DEAD-HEAT WITH AN OUTSIDER.

YOUNG FELIX AGAIN.

SOME POINTERS FOR LINGFIELD.

NOTTINGHAM, Tuesday.

SUNSHINE put some zest into Nottingham to-day, but it is all apparent that this is a broken racing week. A few backers will be inclined to emphasise the "broken" part after Mudlark and Myrmidon this afternoon. Fox had the reverse of a pleasant ride on the favourite, Myrmidon, in the Newark Handicap. It was thought that stronger handling would make all the difference to Myrmidon, but, as a matter of plain fact, he did not do a quarter so well as when Sirolt had the mount at Newbury. It is no good getting the best of the market unless you can draw at the setting, as those who secured 5—2 about a 7—4 loser found to their cost. Cox had to get to work early in the race, but it only caused Myrmidon to fall further behind. There must be a kink somewhere. Donoghue made desperate efforts to come right through with Galadecr, but Alford made the weight tell near the finish on Feng, who was also always well up. Feng was among the 100—8 others, and he only got there by a head. Elfinette will have benefited by the gallop. She was hung in the picture during the earlier stages. One professional backed 7—2, but she went off to fives. Mural Arch ran badly.

The alarming rumours from Newmarket concerning Mudlark were negatived by his presence in the Robin Hood Plate, but it was noticeable that his hind legs had been freely dressed with iodine, and I do not think we saw the same live force as in his earlier races. The fact that he only dead-heated with Sunrising colt seemed to confirm that, though I think Mudlark should have won outright. In fact, Jack Leach thought he had secured the verdict comfortably, and Wragg was surprised to find he had dead-heated.

Leach overcame the worst of the draw by going into the lead before they had travelled far. Those down the course told me that horse and jockey were going so easily when they passed them that they had no doubts, but Sunrising colt actually headed the favourite, who only got up again to make a division of the spoils. Nor did his pilot have to put in any special effort to do so. Sunrising colt will be a bit of a tonic to Sam Pickering, who is, I hear, going on well. It looked as though he viewed Covenden as the greater danger. Lumville colt, who went out from three to one to sevens, never flattered after a slow beginning. Hakinalt should win a nice seller for Wootton.

F. Fox.

CONSOLATION.

Young Felix Leach found consolation when Roman Eagle proved a good thing for the sprint. The penalty was reduced by that useful lad Baines taking the 5lbs. allowance, and the Eagle got up near home to overhaul the leading Paint Box by a length and a half. Paint Box had top weight, and I have made a note of her for Chepstow. Poluska was always among the leaders, but Berenice turned round at the start, and naturally was always a back number. She had been almost as well backed as the winner. It was young Felix Leach's thirteenth winner this season. He will be anxious now, he said, until he saddles No. 14 to-morrow.

It will be a modest but interesting card at Lingfield to-morrow, when Fred Darling will introduce the dark Messenger Boy in the Chiddingstone Plate. Apparently the penalized Romany will not run, though he might have proved the stronger medicine, even though it looked that only the strong jockeyship of Childs enabled him to pip Cinq-a-Sept at Newmarket last week. Messenger Boy, according to the stable estimate, will never be within hail of classic form. Tommy Atkins showed, by beating Alan Malone at Derby, that he liked the dirt. It has raised him 10lbs. in the weights, so I think Messenger Boy is the horse to stand under existing conditions. Both should take account for Silversteed.

Alan Malone won in such a runaway style at Newbury that some of the minor placings may not have been too reliable. If they were, Evall would appear the hardest good thing of the week with only 7st. 8lbs. in the Felbridge Handicap over six furlongs. Lowe has, too, again got his charge well forward. I prefer, however, to bank on the Liverpool and Newbury prominence of another light weight in Polydox, who was fourth when favourite to Residue. Myrmidon, who was then third, did not, as I have explained, give the right line to-day to that form. I know Morecambe fancied his Newmarket winner Heir Apparent well, and if the distance was again nine furlongs I would expect the rather lazy colt to defy his extra but he might be outpaced over the shorter and easier course. Other penalized recent winners are First Offence and Quick Return, and Royal Salute is fit, whereas such as White Maize, Queen's Bower, Toreador, View, Golden Chalice, and Telavir have to be taken more on trust. So I shall back Polydox each way in preference to Heir Apparent and Exalt.

A likely long shot, win and place, seems to be Irish Princess in the Victoria Spring Handicap, the most valuable event of the afternoon. There is just a doubt whether the Princess gets a mile and five furlongs, but she was generally "among the money" last year, and I noticed her particularly for a long way in Goodwin's race at Newmarket last week. Highbrow, of course, represents very different class, but I shall particularly be annoyed with him when he ran over hurdles at Liverpool. I am told that he is always reluctant to go to the post, and Mr. Lambton gives him a good enough character, but a combination of age and 3st. 3lbs. makes me wary.

Gooch's Broken Faith, who will have Fox up, is two years older, and he is a bit of a wonder for ten years. Dumbiedykes may not be saddled. Broken Faith she is due to run in the Great Metropolitan next week, when they will be ridden by Fox and Burns respectively. Broken Faith and Ian Ban may be the stable hopes to-morrow, and I incline more to Broken Faith. Silent Or proved himself a reformed character last season, when he went on winning. He may not, however, accompany the hurdling Acceleration. The course is too far for Paddy, but it will suit Mafoota better than the other she secretly tackled, while Bacon and Penmore will also have to be reckoned with. I shall look for Beesborough a little later. There may be sufficient runners to support profitably Irish Princess each way rather than back Highbrow or Gooch's best to win.

I mentioned after the gambled-on Soult beat the none too lucky Quip and Inversnaid colt at headquarters last week that the unnamed youngster was said to be the best Tabor had tried so far. Donoghue did not ride the newcomer right out when he saw that he could not win, so I shall follow up Inversnaid colt. Jack Jarvis is finished for the week, he tells me, so Quip and Pitsano will be absent. Froth Blower has proved his smartness, while young Nugent's Norwest was freely backed when runner-up to the very smart Grandace in a big field at Newbury. The price of Inversnaid colt will obviously depend on the final constitution of the field, and overnight speculations cannot be so accurate as when the going is normal. But if there is a fair chance of backing Inversnaid colt each way to beat Soult on the 10lbs. better terms now, it seems sound business to do so.

HIGHBROW'S SEVERE TASK.

WEIGHT IN FAVOUR OF BESSBOROUGH.

"Daily Express" Headquarters Correspondent.

NEWMARKET, Tuesday Night.

Leach has sent Birthday and La Vie Parisienne filly for the Surrey Selling Plate, and the pair will presumably run on their merits. Birthday is, I believe, the better; but a mistake can easily be made, and in the circumstances I shall vote for Eternity, who has been well sharpened up, and is useful in this class.

Recent winners in Soult and Froth Blower represent us in the Lingfield Spring Two-Year-Old Plate, and we also run North-Easter. The last named will be receiving weight from the other two, and, as I know him to have done well since Catterick, I make Watson's colt my choice.

Highbrow and Bessborough have left fit and well for the Victoria Spring Handicap. Basil Jarvis' horse had had luck in his race at Leicester. Highbrow went very well in a gallop over the distance on Saturday, and the going is in his favour, but he has a big weight, and I give preference to Bessborough.

The improving Tommy Atkins is expected to shoulder his penalty successfully in the Chiddingstone Maiden Plate, while for the Felbridge Three-Year-Old Handicap I have most faith in Hazel Lad.

LONGSIGHT'S VIEWS.

Red Paint missed a Nottingham engagement, but is expected to take his chance in the Surrey Selling Plate at Lingfield. On his fourth to Auditor at Newbury the colt should win this race. Pride of the Park c and Instalment, a Golden Sun youngster, will be dangerous, particularly the last named. The selection is: Red Paint each way, if absent Instalment each way.

Shasta was confidently supported to beat Bouzols at Leicester. He was outpaced in the final stages to finish third, although the distance of the Oxted Selling Plate is a furlong further than the earlier race. Shasta is bred to stay a mile or over. The selection is: Shasta each way.

Irish Princess was sixth to Goodwin at Newmarket, and has an excellent chance of winning the Victoria Spring Handicap. She won one race last season, but was placed in several others. The victory was over one mile and three furlongs, the longest distance to which she was put, and I formed the opinion that had the filly been kept to twelve furlong races her record would have improved. Irish Princess compounded at Newmarket after making the running for three-parts of the journey, but in my opinion she will be judiciously ridden for last only the distance of to-day's race. I am making her my best for to-day. The selection is: Irish Princess each way (nap).
